"Today's filing is a critical step toward creating two differentiated, innovative and productive companies, each with promising foundational assets and the opportunity to build industry-leading businesses," said Peter Hecht, chief executive officer of Ironwood and future chief executive officer of Cycleron following completion of the planned separation. "With strong competitive positions and flexibility to pursue their distinct growth opportunities, we believe both Ironwood and Cycleron are positioned well to enhance value for patients and shareholders."

Cycleron expects to be a clinical-stage biopharmaceutical company harnessing the power of sGC pharmacology to discover, develop and commercialize breakthrough treatments for serious and orphan diseases. The company plans to advance five differentiated sGC stimulator programs that are designed to target tissues of greatest relevance to the diseases they are intended to treat: olinciguat (Phase 2) for sickle cell disease, pralinciguat (Phase 2) for heart failure with preserved ejection fraction (HFpEF) and for diabetic nephropathy, IW-6463 (Phase 1) for serious and orphan central nervous system diseases, and two late-stage tissue-targeted discovery programs targeting serious liver and lung diseases.

Dr. Hecht continued, "Cycleron intends to advance breakthrough treatments for serious and orphan diseases. We believe Cycleron will have an experienced team with a track record of discovering, developing and commercializing important therapies, and we look forward to working to unlock the full therapeutic potential of its sGC development pipeline."

Following the planned separation, Ironwood expects to build a leading gastrointestinal (GI)-focused healthcare franchise, leveraging its commercial success to-date with LINZESS® (linaclotide) and advancing its late-stage, first-in-category development candidates for persistent gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD) and abdominal pain toward the market. Ironwood plans to focus on driving further innovation within the GI market and delivering differentiated therapies to patients through its robust portfolio of GI assets and its strong global network of partnerships.

Ironwood plans to distribute 100% of the outstanding shares of Cycleron common stock to Ironwood's stockholders on a pro-rata basis and, immediately following the distribution, Cycleron is expected to close a private placement in which certain investors will make a cash investment in Cycleron in exchange for newly issued shares of Cycleron common stock. The Form 10 filing provides important information on the business strategy and historical financial data relating to Cycleron and will be updated with additional information in subsequent amendments in conjunction with the SEC review process. For more information, the full Form 10 can be viewed at <http://www.sec.gov> and Ironwood's Investor Relations site at <http://investor.ironwoodpharma.com/>.

Ironwood is on track to complete the planned separation in the first half of 2019, subject to customary conditions, including effectiveness of the Form 10, a favorable opinion with respect to the tax-free nature of the transaction, and final approval of Ironwood's Board of Directors.
